- Have been using Monoclonal Ab in some of the assisted living communities where they currently have either a PCP relationship or Medical Directors would have to check with their malpractice carrier whether they can order treatments for patients who are not under their practice.
- For patients in assisted living who do not have NECMS physician or NP as PCP or Medical Director, they would have to get an order from the residents PCP and NECMS will gladly facilitate them getting the therapy.
- Since this treatment with an infusion has some risk. The PCP is always the best person to recommend and order the treatment.

- They will write the orders for monoclonal antibodies for any outbreak in an assisted living where DPH and the Rapid Response Team agree that it is the best course of action.
- They have assisted with 3 buildings so far and are working on a protocol for others.
 - Such as how do they obtain needles, adverse drug reaction kits, etc.
