

Dear Members,

DPH issued a message regarding a CDC investigation into Listeria detected in Lyons Magnus supplemental shakes, manufactured in Fort Wayne, Indiana. While no cases have been reported in Massachusetts, your community may have received some of these products.

See below for the full message from DPH:

Dear Long-Term Care Colleagues,

The FDA has announced a recall of Lyons Magnus supplemental shakes manufactured in Fort Wayne, Indiana, due to potential Listeria contamination. While no cases have been reported in Massachusetts, some Long-Term Care Facilities may have received these products.

For more information on the recall, please visit the FDA notice: Lyons Magnus Recall Notice

Details on the ongoing investigation can be found here: CDC Investigation Update

If your facility has these products, please follow the recall instructions and ensure proper disposal.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Sincerely,

The Massachusetts Department of Public Health
